FUTURE PROSPECTS: IMMEDIATE

We at Java Tucana are looking to future in a variety of ways:

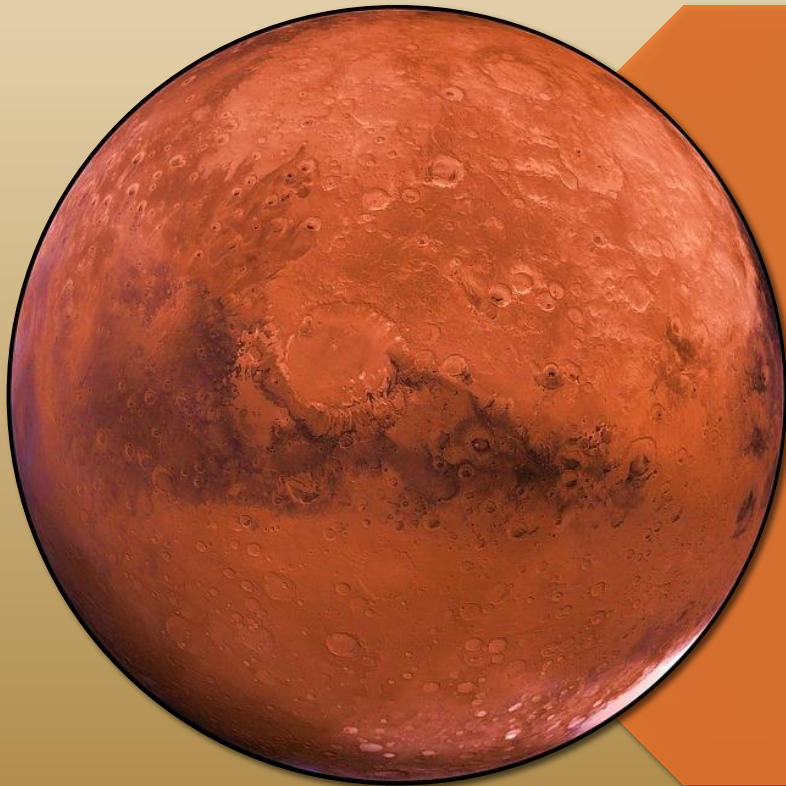

- Within each sales region, we're making a concerted effort to expand our ever-growing list of customer countries and clients.
- We're building deeper, sustainable relationships with our growers, seeking partnership with new growers, and expanding our inventory of resources to help shape and support their future growth.
- In terms of end users, we're in the process of expanding our café franchise into additional markets in all regions, to increase demand and maintain brand recognition and presence.

FUTURE PROSPECTS: LONG TERM

In our never-ending quest to remain on the cutting edge of coffee production and sales, next year we'll begin in earnest a project to ensure the long-term growth and success of Java Tucana well into the next century: supporting the colonization of Mars. We'll focus on:

- R&D: The ability to maintain an Earth-based supply chain and the feasibility of growing, harvesting, roasting, packing, and shipping beans in the Martian environment, agriculturally and hydroponically.
- Infrastructure development and implementation: We'll be the first coffee company that not only supplies coffee to Martians, but also provides the same café environment and services that Earthlings have come to expect from Java Tucana.
